

2023 Rule of Law Report - targeted stakeholder consultation

Fields marked with * are mandatory.

Introduction

The annual Rule of Law Report lies at the centre of the European rule of law mechanism, which acts as a preventive tool, deepening multilateral dialogue and joint awareness of rule of law issues. So far, three editions of the Rule of Law Report have been published in 2020, 2021 and 2022.

In the preparation of the first three editions of the Rule of Law Report, the Commission has relied on a diversity of relevant sources, including from Member States, country visits, and stakeholders' contributions collected through the targeted stakeholder consultation [1]. The information provided has informed the Commission's country-specific assessments in preparing the Report. Building on the positive experience from the first three editions of the Rule of Law Report, the Commission is now inviting stakeholders to provide written contributions for the preparation of the 2023 Rule of Law Report through this targeted consultation.

The contribution to be provided should include (1) information on measures taken to implement the recommendations addressed to the Member State in the 2022 Rule of Law report, as well as developments with regard to the points raised in the respective country chapter and (2) any other significant developments since January 2022 [2] falling under the 'type of information' outlined in the next section.

The input should be short and concise and summarise information related to one or more of the areas referred to in the template. You are invited to focus on the areas that relate to the scope of work and expertise of your organisation. Existing reports, statements, legislation or other documents may be referenced with a link (no need to provide the full text). Stakeholders are encouraged to make references to any contributions already provided in a different context or to Reports and documents already published. Contributions should focus on significant developments both as regards the legal framework and its implementation in practice.

If you wish to submit information concerning several Member States, you will have to fill-in the questionnaire separately for each Member States (due to the size of the questionnaire). There is no limit to the number of contributions submitted by a single participant. In such cases, you are not required to repeat the information in the section "about you" that is non-mandatory nor the information on horizontal developments.

Please provide your contribution by 20 January 2023. Should you have any requests for clarifications or encounter difficulties in filling in the questionnaire, you can contact the Commission at the following email address: rule-of-law-network@ec.europa.eu.

[1] For the consultation for the 2022 Report, see https://ec.europa.eu/info/publications/2022-rule-law-report-targeted-stakeholder-consultation_en

[2] Unless the information was already submitted in the consultation for the previous Rule of Law Reports.

Type of information

The topics are structured according to four pillars: I. Justice system; II. Anti-corruption framework; III. Media pluralism; and IV. Other institutional issues related to checks and balances. The replies could include aspects set out below under each pillar. This can include challenges, current work streams, positive developments and best practices:

Legislative developments

- Newly adopted legislation
- Legislative drafts currently discussed in Parliament
- Legislative plans envisaged by the Government

Policy developments

- Implementation of legislation
- Evaluations, impact assessment, surveys
- White papers/strategies/actions plans/consultation processes
- Follow-up to reports/recommendations of Council of Europe bodies or other international organisations
- Important administrative measures
- Generalised practices

Developments related to the judiciary / independent authorities

- Important case law by national courts
- Important decision/opinions from independent bodies/authorities
- State of play on terms, nominations and expired mandates for high-level positions (e.g. Supreme Court, Constitutional Court, Council for the Judiciary, heads of independent authorities included in the scope of the questionnaire[1])

Any other relevant developments

- Respondents are free to add any further information, which they deem relevant; however, this should be short and to the point.

If there are no changes, it is sufficient to indicate this and the information covered in the contributions for the previous Rule of Law Reports should not be repeated.

[1] Such as: media regulatory authorities and bodies, national human rights institutions, equality bodies, ombudsman institutions, supreme audit institutions and, where they exist, transparency authorities.

Questions on horizontal developments

In this section, you are invited to provide information on general horizontal developments or trends, both positive and negative, covering all or several Member States. In particular, you could mention issues that are common to several Member States, as well as best practices identified in one Member State that could be replicated. Moreover, you could refer to your activities in the area of the four pillars and sub-topics (an overview of all sub-topics can be found below), and, if you represent a Network of national organisations, to the support you might have provided to one of your national members.

Questions for contribution

The following four pillars (I.-IV.) are sub-divided into topics (A., B., etc.) and sub-topics (1., 2., 3., etc.). For each of the topics and sub-topics, you are invited to provide (1) information on measures taken to implement the recommendations addressed to the Member States in the 2022 Rule of Law report, as well as developments with regard to the points raised in the respective country chapter of the 2022 Rule of Law Report and (2) any other significant developments since January 2022^[1]. Please include a link to and reference relevant legislation/documents (in the national language and/or where available, in English) if relevant. Significant developments can include challenges, positive developments and best practices, covering both legislative developments or implementation and practices.

If there are developments you consider relevant under each of the four pillars that are not mentioned in the sub-topics, please add them under the section "other - please specify". Only significant developments should be covered.

Information provided in reply to the first question under each pillar, related to the follow-up to the recommendations, does not need to be repeated in subsequent parts of the questionnaire, but can be cross-referenced in the subsequent questions, where relevant. All other questions are not limited to the recommendations, but as in previous years, cover the entire scope of the Report.

[1] Unless already covered in the input for the previous Rule of Law Reports.

Member State covered in contribution [only one choice possible]

If you wish to submit information concerning several Member States, please fill in the questionnaire separately for each Member State. There is no limit to the number of contributions submitted by a single participant.

Equal treatment and anti-discrimination legislation, which became law in July 2022, modified existing hate-crime legislation to include anti-gypsyism (anti-gitanismo) and aporofobia (fear of the poor) as prosecutable motives in criminal law.

In September 2022, the government sought to expedite a draft law with provisions on gender recognition based on self-identification for transgender and non-binary people, including children. The lower house of parliament's rejected a similar proposed legislation the previous year. The September draft law also proposed improvements to protections from discrimination for lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) people.

II. Anti-Corruption Framework

Where previous specific reports, published in the framework of the review under the UN Convention against Corruption, of GRECO, and of the OECD address the issues below, please make a reference to the points you wish to bring to the Commission's attention in these documents, indicating any relevant updates, changes or measures introduced that have occurred since these documents were published.

Please provide information on measures taken to follow-up on the recommendations received in the 2022 Report regarding the anti-corruption framework (if applicable)

3000 character(s) maximum

In April 2022, digital rights researchers based in Canada published findings that the phones of at least 65 people, including Catalan and Basque pro-independence politicians, lawyers, and civil society activists, had been infected with spyware. Later reports suggested the National Intelligence Center (CNI) was responsible for the hack. The human rights ombudsman's investigation into the affair concluded that the CNI's actions had been in line with existing law but encouraged an assessment of whether the legislation governing surveillance was adequate.

In May, the government dismissed the director of the National Intelligence Centre (CNI) after further reports of spyware attacks. The prime minister announced legislation proposing a restructuring and change in oversight of the CNI, and a change in the official secrets law. Cybersecurity experts and human rights groups were critical of whether the steps taken were sufficient to address the lack of oversight.

A March report 2022, produced by two nongovernmental organizations and financed by the Equality Ministry, documented widespread discrimination by real estate agents and private landlords based on racial, ethnic, or national origin.

IV. Other institutional issues related to checks and balances

Please provide information on measures taken to follow-up on the recommendations received in the 2022 Report regarding the system of checks and balances (if applicable)

3000 character(s) maximum

A. The process for preparing and enacting laws

Framework, policy and use of impact assessments and evidence based policy-making, stakeholders'[1] /public consultations (particularly consultation of judiciary and other relevant stakeholders on judicial reforms), and transparency and quality of the legislative process

[1] This includes also the consultation of social partners

3000 character(s) maximum

Rules and use of fast-track procedures and emergency procedures (for example, the percentage of decisions adopted through emergency/urgent procedure compared to the total number of adopted decisions)

3000 character(s) maximum

Regime for constitutional review of laws

3000 character(s) maximum

COVID-19: provide update on significant developments with regard to emergency regimes/measures in the context of the COVID-19 pandemic

- judicial review (including constitutional review) of emergency regimes and measures in the context of COVID-19 pandemic
- oversight (incl. ex-post reporting/investigation) by Parliament of emergency regimes and measures in the context of COVID-19 pandemic
- processes related to lessons learned/crisis preparedness in terms of the functioning of checks and balances

3000 character(s) maximum

Governmental efforts, including furlough payments and additional social transfers, to blunt the economic impact of the Covid-19 pandemic may have helped slow this increase, as the percentage of the population in severe social and material deprivation decreased marginally over this period. However, official data from 2021 showed that many households were already facing an increasing cost of living, as the percentage of households struggling with housing and energy costs increased.

In June 2022, the government extended to the end of the year a moratorium on evictions of people who could demonstrate “social and economic vulnerability,” a measure introduced in 2020 to mitigate the impact the Covid-19 pandemic. However, despite this move, housing rights activists raised concerns about the adequacy of the law's definition of "vulnerability" as evictions continued to be enforced, with 11,000 taking place in the first three months of the year.

B. Independent authorities

Independence, resources, capacity and powers of national human rights institutions ('NHRIs'), of ombudsman institutions if different from NHRIs, of equality bodies if different from NHRIs and of supreme audit institutions

(Cf. the website of the European Court of Auditors: <https://www.eca.europa.eu/en/Pages/SupremeAuditInstitutions.aspx#>)

3000 character(s) maximum

E. Initiatives to foster a rule of law culture

Measures to foster a rule of law culture (e.g. debates in national parliaments on the rule of law, public information campaigns on rule of law issues, contributions from civil society etc.)

3000 character(s) maximum

In August 2022, Parliament approved long-awaited legislation on rape and sexual consent. The new “Yes Means Yes” law clarifies that consent cannot be inferred from passivity, silence, or by default, and attempts to close a loophole in which rape of children could be tried as a lower offense of “sexual abuse” where violence and intimidation are not proven. Activists raised concerns that certain recategorization of crimes under the new law reduces minimum sentences for some sexual crimes, which can also have retrospective application.

In July 2022, the human rights ombudsperson’s new service for victims of clerical sexual abuse began its work, and by late September reported that it had attended to 230 victims, most of whom are men. The ombudsperson’s investigation—the first of its kind in Spain—is in progress.

An October 2022 ruling by the Constitutional Tribunal, in a case brought by a Moroccan man who arrived by boat in the Canary Islands in November 2020 and whom authorities tried to deport the next month, criticized police for failing to ensure his access to legal representation on arrival. The tribunal also drew attention to repeated failure by the police in this case and others to ensure proper judicial oversight of migration detention.

By late October 2022, Spain had granted temporary protection to more than 150,000 people fleeing the conflict in Ukraine, including Ukrainian nationals, stateless people, and their dependents; Ukrainians already in Spain with and without regular status and unable to return home; and third country nationals previously living in Ukraine and unable to return to their country of origin.

By June 2022, Spain had provided work and residence permits to 9,300 young people aged 16 to 23 who had either come to Spain as unaccompanied children or had been in state care, using a regularization program established in late 2021. The measure was focused on ensuring regulated access to the labor market, initially in agriculture, but increasingly in hospitality, manufacturing, and commerce.

The government adopted reforms to the Minimum Vital Income (IMV) program, established in May 2020, to reduce high rejection rates, improve the flawed eligibility calculation method, and ensure faster processing of applications for the social assistance program. Although the government raised IMV support levels at the start of the year, including specific additional payments for single-parent households and people with disabilities, the increases were rapidly outpaced by inflation. The program also retained arbitrary criteria, which continued to exclude most people aged between 18 and 22, and people without one year's continuous legal residence.

A government draft law that would introduce the statutory concept of "affordable housing" and seek to remedy a system-wide lack of public housing was pending in Parliament at time of writing.

The lack of safe and legal routes for migrants continued to cause harm and death. Caminando Fronteras, a migrant rights group, estimated that 978 people had died at sea trying to cross by boat from Africa to Spain during the first half of the year, with about four in five of the deaths on the Atlantic route.

In May 2022, Spain ignored UNHCR concerns about the risk of torture and deported a 32-year-old Algerian asylum seeker who had been convicted of criminal offenses in Algeria. In May 2022, the human rights ombudsperson reminded authorities that people from Morocco were entitled to seek international protection at the Temporary Stay Center for Foreigners in Melilla, from which they were being turned away.

In October 2022, in an admissibility decision relating to a separate complaint brought by residents of Cañada Real, the European Committee of Social Rights directed the government to take immediate measures to ensure sufficient electricity to the settlement or offer suitable alternative accommodation to residents.

Official figures published in March and June 2022 showed that complaints to the authorities of gender-based violence increased during the prior year and the first three months of 2022. The figures also showed that judicial authorities were using new powers from 2021 to suspend visitation rights in cases of suspected domestic violence.

In July, the UN CEDAW held that Spanish health authorities had in 2012 violated the rights of a woman known as NAE by forcing her to have a premature induction of labor and cesarean delivery without her consent, thereby subjecting her to obstetric violence. The committee recommended that the state provide reparations to NAE, ensure an improved approach to free, prior, and informed consent in the context of reproductive health, and greater respect for patients' rights when dealing with complaints in the judicial system.
