

2023 Rule of Law Report - targeted stakeholder consultation

Fields marked with * are mandatory.

Introduction

The annual Rule of Law Report lies at the centre of the European rule of law mechanism, which acts as a preventive tool, deepening multilateral dialogue and joint awareness of rule of law issues. So far, three editions of the Rule of Law Report have been published in 2020, 2021 and 2022.

In the preparation of the first three editions of the Rule of Law Report, the Commission has relied on a diversity of relevant sources, including from Member States, country visits, and stakeholders' contributions collected through the targeted stakeholder consultation [1]. The information provided has informed the Commission's country-specific assessments in preparing the Report. Building on the positive experience from the first three editions of the Rule of Law Report, the Commission is now inviting stakeholders to provide written contributions for the preparation of the 2023 Rule of Law Report through this targeted consultation.

The contribution to be provided should include (1) information on measures taken to implement the recommendations addressed to the Member State in the 2022 Rule of Law report, as well as developments with regard to the points raised in the respective country chapter and (2) any other significant developments since January 2022 [2] falling under the 'type of information' outlined in the next section.

The input should be short and concise and summarise information related to one or more of the areas referred to in the template. You are invited to focus on the areas that relate to the scope of work and expertise of your organisation. Existing reports, statements, legislation or other documents may be referenced with a link (no need to provide the full text). Stakeholders are encouraged to make references to any contributions already provided in a different context or to Reports and documents already published. Contributions should focus on significant developments both as regards the legal framework and its implementation in practice.

If you wish to submit information concerning several Member States, you will have to fill-in the questionnaire separately for each Member States (due to the size of the questionnaire). There is no limit to the number of contributions submitted by a single participant. In such cases, you are not required to repeat the information in the section "about you" that is non-mandatory nor the information on horizontal developments.

Please provide your contribution by 20 January 2023. Should you have any requests for clarifications or encounter difficulties in filling in the questionnaire, you can contact the Commission at the following email address: rule-of-law-network@ec.europa.eu.

Questions on horizontal developments

In this section, you are invited to provide information on general horizontal developments or trends, both positive and negative, covering all or several Member States. In particular, you could mention issues that are common to several Member States, as well as best practices identified in one Member State that could be replicated. Moreover, you could refer to your activities in the area of the four pillars and sub-topics (an overview of all sub-topics can be found below), and, if you represent a Network of national organisations, to the support you might have provided to one of your national members.

1. The attacks on the independence of judicial systems are persisting and multi-faceted, ranging from reforms that undermined the separation of powers to the systematic weakening of institutions in charge of ensuring the accountability and transparency of government action, from the attack on individual judges to public delegitimation campaigns against the whole judiciary. Even in contexts where judicial independence is rooted in a stable constitutional framework, there are attempts to introduce reforms that would represent a step back. For instance in Italy there are currently envisaged reforms of the public prosecution that would move it away from the model of independent public prosecutor as it results from the elaboration of common European principles and the advance represented by the establishment of the EPPO.

A critical situation persists as well for the institutions that ensure the self-government of the judiciary, that represent a key bulwark in the maintenance of the independence of the courts (Poland). In addition to the situations where the Councils of Justice have lost their role in safeguarding independence (Poland), there are also situations in which their authority is dangerously undermined for political reasons. MEDEL has, e.g., recently raised the alarm about the situation of the General Council of the Spanish Judiciary, which has been working under an expired mandate for more than four years, highlighting the urgency of restoring the full functionality of this institution.

When it comes to positive trends, one can note the reaction to the strengthening of the EU framework for the protection of the Rule of Law. The cases initiated by Hungary and Poland about the conditionality mechanism allowed the further clarification by the CJEU of the nature of article 2 of the EU Treaty, to be considered not merely as a statement of policy guidelines but rather as a definition of values that are an integral part of the “very identity” of the EU, providing for legally binding obligations for Member States. In line with this vision of Rule of Law as a set of non-negotiable values, which encompasses not only formal legality but also democracy and respect for fundamental rights, an active role has been assumed by the section of civil society more focused on the protection of fundamental rights, that acts and perceives itself as a fully European community of associations of judges and prosecutors, and representatives of the legal profession and the academia, and specialised NGOs.

In this regard it has to be stressed that MEDEL, together with other European judicial associations, recently lodged with the Court of Justice of the European Union an application for the annulment of the EU Council decision to unblock Recovery and Resilience funds for Poland, specifically as regards Rule of Law milestones, that the associations consider inconsistent with the case-law of the Court and insufficient to ensure effective protection of the independence of judiciary.

2. In various contexts one can easily spot (this is the case of Italy and France) risks implied in reforms solely centred on the achievement of measurable objectives, typically of a quantitative rather than qualitative nature. These reforms are usually inspired by a management vision prioritising a strict control over magistrates, with increasingly demanding performance standards the violation of which can bring to preliminary sanctions and increased discretion of the heads of the office. Such policies unavoidably harbour incentives to bureaucratisation and conformism in judicial and prosecutorial decision making.

Such transformation processes are often taking place in the context of planning of the use of resources recently made available, as the post-Covid recovery funds in Italy and France. There is here a substantial risk to disregard the fact that the increased funding of the justice system should be in any case used to pursue its core mission, i.e., the protection of fundamental rights, with particular attention to the most vulnerable.

3. The debate animated since its foundation by MEDEL in this field has increasingly proved the necessity to have strong and effective Rule of Law monitoring tools, covering the whole spectrum of the values of democracy and fundamental rights. A request that MEDEL recently advocated in this respect concerns European migration policies, recalling that these shall stick to a substantive reading of Rule of Law principles, including the protection of human rights. Their violation in the case of migrants, asylum seekers and refugees, shall accordingly be treated as a serious breach of the founding values of the EU, enshrined in article 2 TEU. Therefore, migration policy should be included in the European Commission's Annual Rule of Law Report (<https://medelnet.eu/statement-on-migration/>)

Questions for contribution

The following four pillars (I.-IV.) are sub-divided into topics (A., B., etc.) and sub-topics (1., 2., 3., etc.). For each of the topics and sub-topics, you are invited to provide (1) information on measures taken to implement the recommendations addressed to the Member States in the 2022 Rule of Law report, as well as developments with regard to the points raised in the respective country chapter of the 2022 Rule of Law Report and (2) any other significant developments since January 2022[1]. Please include a link to and reference relevant legislation/documents (in the national language and/or where available, in English) if relevant. Significant developments can include challenges, positive developments and best practices, covering both legislative developments or implementation and practices.

If there are developments you consider relevant under each of the four pillars that are not mentioned in the sub-topics, please add them under the section "other - please specify". Only significant developments should be covered.

Information provided in reply to the first question under each pillar, related to the follow-up to the recommendations, does not need to be repeated in subsequent parts of the questionnaire, but can be cross-referenced in the subsequent questions, where relevant. All other questions are not limited to the recommendations, but as in previous years, cover the entire scope of the Report.

[1] Unless already covered in the input for the previous Rule of Law Reports.

The issue of the independence of the prosecutors is still pending. Despite many announcements, the constitutional reform is still not on the legislative tracks. In fact, the subject is no longer on the table.

Independence of the Bar (chamber/association of lawyers) and of lawyers

3000 character(s) maximum

Significant developments capable of affecting the perception that the general public has of the independence of the judiciary

3000 character(s) maximum

A new bill has reduced the recourse to jurors and jury trials in criminal cases.

Since the French Revolution, cases when an accused person can be convicted to a 10 years or more jail have been judged by a mixed courts composed by 3 magistrates and 6 or 9 jurors. From now, the recourse to jurors have been limited to cases when a accused person incurred more than 20 years of prison

B. Quality of justice

(Under this topic, you are not required to give statistical information but should provide input on the type of information outlined under section 2)

Accessibility of courts (e.g. court/legal fees, legal aid, language)

3000 character(s) maximum

Resources of the judiciary (human/financial/material)

(Material resources refer e.g. to court buildings and other facilities)

3000 character(s) maximum

France still lacks a high number of judges, prosecutors and law clerks. The ministry of justice has launch a campaign of recruitment of assistants

The government tried to sale that in 2022 he complied with the recommendation, but we are still way back human resources taking into account European standard. The government did recruit jurist and contract employee but those are temporary workers with 3 years contracts. They cannot replace judges, they can only help the magistrates. As usual, in the allocated budget of justice, more than half of the growth is going to the penitentiary division and not on human resources. The end of the year was marked by the death of a judge (relatively young) during her hearings, excessive workload and lack of judges were explanation given by magistrate syndicate. – links <https://www.syndicat-magistrature.fr/notre-action/independance-et-service-public-de-la-justice/budget-et-conditions-de-travail/2480-budget-2022-quel-sens-des-priorites.html>

Digitalisation (e.g. use of digital technology, particularly electronic communication tools, within the justice system and with court users, including resilience of justice systems in COVID-19 pandemic)

3000 character(s) maximum

The digital transformation project for the period 2018-2022 fell behind and will not meet the deadline.

In 2017, the ministry launched a "going digital" 530 euros millions plan for the 2018-2022 period. The plan contains three main topics: facilitate the accessibility of justice for the citizens, improve software programs and improve the hardware.

At the beginning of 2022, the Court des Comptes (judicial body for the control of the public expenditure) judged in a report that the plan succeeded only for the improval of the hardware. As for the software, the Court notes that the two main projects (a new software for the civil proceeding and an evolution of the software used for the criminal proceeding) are a failure. Budgets have exploded and no due date has been fixed.

Despite a 2 billions increase the budget for the justice is still under the european average

The public expenditure represents less than 90 euro per person, far less form the German perspective. More over, a large part of the increase is not directly given to courts and tribunals.
