Past experience

COMMITTED TO
IMPROVING THE STATE
OF THE WORLD

World Economic Forum

Senior Director, Head of Strategic Foresight
(Geneva, Switzerland)

2005 - 2015

The Forum's Strategic Foresight team engages policy-makers and leaders from business, government and civil society in strategic dialogues to better understand and address complex, long-term challenges by providing a unique, impartial platform for multi-stakeholder engagement.

Principal achievements and responsibilities:

- Built out Strategic Foresight into a unique, worldwide recognized foresight practise, the standard bearer in terms of multi-stakeholder foresight practise for senior executives and policymakers and an integral part of the Forum's value proposition
- Led multi-stakeholder scenario and foresight activities catalysing strong long-term thinking across a broad set of countries, industries and global issues (e.g., Russia, International Monetary System, Mining & Metals industry, Emerging Technologies, Security, Natural Resources, for more see: www.weforum.org/issues/strategic-foresight)
- Developed and implemented innovative, participatory scenario and foresight methods and practises to achieve impact with senior executives and policy makers, influencing their decision making
- Built and managed a highly competent, motivated and efficient team of 10 foresight experts
- Initiated and established the Global Strategic Foresight Community, a diverse group of eminent and forward-looking thought leaders and senior practitioners from leading public, private and civil society organizations of which I am a member. (for more information see: <http://reports.weforum.org/global-strategic-foresight-community/>)
- Developed relations and worked with high-level decision makers, including Heads of State, Ministers, Heads of International Institutions, Heads of Think Tanks, and CEOs
- Designed and facilitated worldwide high-exposure workshops bringing together industry leaders, faculty, industry experts and government representatives
- Spokesperson in international media; author of numerous reports and articles, frequent speaker/moderator/facilitator at high-level events – including Davos, OECD, EC, Oxford; foresight trainer both internally and externally (e.g., GCSP)
- Represented the organisation externally as a regular speaker at conferences and in meetings with high-level decision-makers

Other achievements and responsibilities:

- Contributed to the Forum's organisational strategy processes, for example in repositioning the organisation as a forward-looking thought leader organisation.
- Co-author of the Global Risks 2011 report
- Responsible for the initial set-up of the Forum's Transformation Maps activities

Testimonials

Kristel Van der Elst is a remarkable leader. She is an insightful visionary.

Peter Schwartz, Senior Vice President Strategic Planning, salesforce.com

Kristel's skills and experiences are relevant to any organisation - coalition of actors - aiming to better navigate global shifts and find new and better ways of succeeding in a more connected and unpredictable world.

Dr Angela Wilkinson, Strategic Foresight Counsellor, OECD

Kristel is a unique forward looking thought leader. She brings well focused insights on global issues, framed in a way that helps us see opportunities and solutions where others only see risks and challenges. If you are looking for unique, strategically relevant, forward looking thought leadership, Kristel is your woman.

Herbert Oberhaensli, Vice-President, Economics and International Relations, Nestlé

Kristel is a very remarkable future leader and advisor. I am especially impressed by her leadership and strategic intelligence to apprehend complex global situations. Kristel combines this with great entrepreneurial skills to make it all happen, and world-class trust-based network capabilities.

Prof. Derrick GOSSELIN, President SCK.CEN – Belgian Nuclear Sciences and Technology Research Institute, Member of the Royal Academy of Belgium

Kristel's strategic mindset makes her an ideal person to work with if you are looking to define the best way forward.

H.E. Amanda Ellis, Ambassador New Zealand, Permanent Representative for United Nations, Geneva

Kristel was dedicated to providing insights that were truly useful and relevant for strategic decisions.

Yan E. Yanovskiy, Founder & Managing Partner, FNSB First Nation Société Bancaire

Kristel is always ready to bring fresh insights and innovative thinking to the table, and is adept at 'joining the dots' to tackle complex global risks and issues.

Stephen Kinnock, Member of Parliament, UK

Kristel is naturally gifted in the art of engaging people in meaningful conversations.

Julio Héctor Estrada, Finance Minister of Guatemala

Her know-how is highly important for all national and international companies.

Jaap Meijers, Chairman of the Board, Meijers Assurantiën
