

E-EVIDENCE PACKAGE: STATE OF READINESS

Last updated: 27 August 2026

The following table prepared by the Commission provides information about those Member States that are legally and technically ready to issue and/or receive European Production Orders and European Preservation Orders.

1. GERMANY

Legal readiness

- Issuing: The legal, institutional, administrative and implementation arrangements are in place to enable the competent authorities of that Member State to issue and transmit EPOCs.
- Receiving: The legal, institutional, administrative and implementation arrangements are in place to enable designated establishments and legal representatives of service providers established in that Member State to receive and comply with EPOCs and EPOC-PRs and to enable the enforcing authority to be involved in its various roles.

Technical readiness

- Issuing: The national components of the decentralised IT system are operational in a production environment and capable of enabling the competent authorities of the Member State to transmit and process communications under Article 19 of the Regulation.
- Receiving: The national components of the decentralised IT system are operational in a production environment and capable of enabling the competent authorities of that Member State and designated establishments and legal representatives of service providers established in that Member State to receive and process communications under Article 19 of the Regulation.

2. IRELAND

Legal readiness

- Receiving: The legal, institutional, administrative and implementation arrangements are in place to enable designated establishments and legal representatives of service providers established in that Member State to receive and comply with EPOCs and EPOC-PRs and to enable the enforcing authority to be involved in its various roles.

Technical readiness

- Receiving: The national components of the decentralised IT system are operational in a production environment and capable of enabling the competent authorities of that Member State and designated establishments and legal representatives of service providers established in that Member State to receive and process communications under Article 19 of the Regulation.

3. ITALY

Legal readiness

- Issuing: The legal, institutional, administrative and implementation arrangements are in place to enable the competent authorities of that Member State to issue and transmit EPOCs and EPOCs-PR.
- Receiving: The legal, institutional, administrative and implementation arrangements are in place to enable designated establishments and legal representatives of service providers established in that Member State to receive and comply with EPOCs and EPOC-PRs and to enable the enforcing authority to be involved in its various roles.

Technical readiness

- Issuing: The national components of the decentralised IT system are operational in a production environment and capable of enabling the competent authorities of the Member State to transmit and process communications under Article 19 of the Regulation.

4. SWEDEN

Legal readiness

- Issuing: The legal, institutional, administrative and implementation arrangements are in place to enable the competent authorities of that Member State to issue and transmit EPOCs and EPOCs-PR.