

2026 Rule of Law Report - targeted stakeholder consultation

Fields marked with * are mandatory.

Introduction

The annual Rule of Law Report lies at the centre of the Annual Rule of Law Cycle, which acts as a preventive tool, deepening multilateral dialogue and joint awareness of rule of law issues. So far, six editions of the Rule of Law Report have been published since 2020.

As every year, the Commission would like to invite the stakeholders to provide contributions to the 2026 Rule of Law Report. On the basis of these contributions and on-going developments, further targeted questions may be shared at a later stage of preparation of the 2026 Rule of Law Report, in particular in the context of country visits, or bilateral contacts.

The Commission invites stakeholders to provide contributions which include:

(1) developments and measures taken in relation to the recommendations in the 2025 report,
(2) developments related to topics covered in the 2025 country chapters, as well as any other new developments related to the rule of law.

The input should consist of a short summary, if possible in English, covering the areas referred to below. Legislation or other documents may be referenced with a link. Contributions should focus on significant developments since the last Rule of Law Report both as regards the legal framework and its implementation in practice.

This questionnaire also integrates the separate questionnaire on the single market from last year. In addition to these specific questions, respondents to the questionnaire are invited to consider the Single Market dimension, including any relevant cross-border issues, in all their answers.

Where questions of particular relevance under the single market dimension, this is indicated before the relevant question.

[1] Unless the information was already submitted in the input for the previous Rule of Law Reports.

D) Any other relevant developments

- National authorities are free to add any further information, which they deem relevant; however, this should be short and to the point.

Where relevant, please also indicate whether the developments reported are linked to the implementation of reforms and investments under the national Recovery Resilience Plan. To simplify your answers to the questionnaire, if there are no developments, it is sufficient to indicate this and the information covered in the contributions for the previous Rule of Law Reports does not need not be repeated.

I. Justice System

Please provide information on measures taken to follow-up on the recommendations received in the 2025 Report regarding the justice system (if applicable)

5000 character(s) maximum

In accordance with the provisions of the Additional Provision of Organic Law 3/2024 of 2 August, concerning the reform of both Organic Law 6/1985 of 1 July on the Judiciary and Law 50/1981 of 30 December regulating the Organic Statute of the Public Prosecutor's Office, on 5 February 2025, the General Council of the Judiciary unanimously approved a report on the study of similar European systems for the election of judicial members in analogous bodies, together with a proposal on how to reform the election of members chosen from among judges and magistrates, which includes different models with and without parliamentary involvement.

In October, the Venice Commission issued its opinion on the matter, concluding that the option consisting of the direct election of judicial members by other judges from among candidates endorsed by 25 judges or a judicial association meets the standard of election by peers, but is insufficient to rule out internal politicisation and recommends additional measures.

Currently, a legislative initiative to change the model for electing members of the General Council of the Judiciary is pending before the Parliament. On 31 October 2025, the Official Gazette of the Parliament published a bill proposing an amendment to Organic Law 6/1985 of 1 July on the Judiciary for that purpose, submitted by the Popular Parliamentary Group in the Congress.

The composition of Supreme Court judges is practically complete at present. The Supreme Court continues to maintain additional staff with assistant judges in the Supreme Court Technical Office (SCTO), in order to alleviate the situation caused by judicial vacancies during the years when appointments could not be made. Among the measures recommended in the 2025 Report, there is no evidence that the one concerning the status of the Attorney General has been implemented, particularly regarding the separation of the Attorney General's term of office from that of the Government, taking into account European standards on independence and autonomy of the Public Prosecutor's Office.

Nor has there been any response to the recommendations made to Spain in the 2023, 2024 and 2025 Reports regarding the duration of investigations and proceedings, with the aim of increasing efficiency in handling high-level corruption cases, particularly through the completion of the reform of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

5000 character(s) maximum

As reported in previous years, several criminal proceedings are currently pending before the Supreme Court and other judicial bodies in relation to alleged irregularities committed by certain political representatives, senior State officials, and individuals of notable social prominence. Some of these proceedings have concluded, while others have recently commenced or remain ongoing.

Frequently, individuals from different political parties, both within Parliament and outside it, criticize judges for their actions, particularly when those involved are colleagues from their own political party or persons affiliated with a specific group or circle of interests.

The criminal case brought against the former Attorney General, Mr. Álvaro García Ortiz, has attracted significant public attention. The charges were based on the disclosure of confidential data related to a criminal matter involving the partner of the President of the Community of Madrid, a prominent figure of the opposition party. The trial took place before the Supreme Court last November and received extensive media coverage. The hearings, which proceeded without notable incidents, were broadcast in full via an internal channel to more than two hundred accredited journalists from national and international media outlets located at the court's premises. The judgment, announced on 20th November, convicted the defendant of the offence of unlawful disclosure of confidential information. Following this announcement, the then Attorney General resigned, and a new person was appointed to the post. The full judgment was published on 9 December, accompanied by a dissenting opinion issued by two of the seven members of the court.

The conviction has prompted numerous reactions widely reported by the media. The judgment has been questioned, with comments such as "many Hollywood scripts have less creativity" or describing it as "a purely inquisitorial act of faith," and accusations of "judicial warfare" (lawfare) or judicial persecution, portraying the defendant as the victim of a politically motivated proceeding. Some political representatives have used expressions such as "judicial coup" and reiterated the previously suggested notion that the conviction forms part of an alleged "organized and coordinated" operation to destabilize the Executive through judicial mechanisms or the "use of justice for political purposes." Many of these statements were made even before the full text of the judgment was made public.

The Supreme Court has not issued any response to these statements.

In her address at the opening of the current judicial year in September, the President of the Supreme Court and of the General Council of the Judiciary emphasized that "trust and credibility in the justice system are a common good that must be preserved, as they underpin the very strength of our Rule of Law," described as "entirely inappropriate and unacceptable the persistent disparagement of the judiciary by public authorities," and stressed the need to uphold mutual respect and institutional loyalty.

B. Quality of justice

(Under this topic, you are not required to give statistical information but should provide input on the type of information outlined in the introduction)

[single market relevance] Accessibility of courts (e.g. court/legal fees, legal aid, language)

5000 character(s) maximum

Resources of the judiciary (human/financial/material), remuneration/bonuses/rewards for judges and prosecutors, including observed changes (significant and targeted increase or decrease over the past year)

(Material resources refer e.g. to court buildings and other facilities. Financial resources include salaries of staff in courts and prosecution offices.)

5000 character(s) maximum

The Spanish Supreme Court lacks budgetary autonomy. Material and financial resources, both in respect of judicial personnel and other civil service and staff positions, are provided by the Ministry of Justice. With regard to the material resource needs of the Supreme Court, it should be noted that, despite efforts made in technological means, the IT system presents significant deficiencies, including the obsolescence of certain applications, the interoperability of case management systems across different territories, failures in remote access systems, and user support issues. The Statute of the Legal Counsel of the SCTO remains unapproved, which has constituted a legal obligation for more than ten years pursuant to the eighth final provision of Organic Law 7/2015 of 21 July, amending Organic Law 6/1985 of 1 July on the Judiciary. The precarious nature of the statutory regime governing these legal counsels decisively affects the proper functioning of the SCTO, which is essential for the efficient operation of the Court.

[single market relevance] Training of justice professionals (including judges, prosecutors, lawyers, court staff, clerks/trainees)

5000 character(s) maximum

The Supreme Court plays an active role in the training of judges, not only through the participation of its members as lecturers in training programmes organised by the General Council of the Judiciary, but also by attending and delivering such programmes, and by disseminating—through various specialised courses held within the Court itself—knowledge of the case law of its different Chambers among members of other judicial bodies. As noted above, the Supreme Court lacks budgetary autonomy; accordingly, any training, institutional, or international activity it seeks to undertake requires the prior approval of the General Council of the Judiciary, as well as funding either from the Council itself or from the Ministry of Justice.

Digitalisation (e.g. use of digital technology, including electronic communication and AI tools, within the justice system and with court users, procedural rules, access to judgments online)

5000 character(s) maximum

It should be noted, as already indicated in previous reports, that 100% of notifications sent to the parties in cases handled by the Supreme Court are carried out electronically. This means that all communications with external parties—namely, notifications to lawyers and litigants—are conducted entirely through telematic means (LexNet System). Likewise, the digital processing of all proceedings and the use of digital signatures in judicial decisions have been standardized. Efforts are being made by the Ministry of Justice and the General Council of the Judiciary to develop IT systems and improve digitalization in the tools available to professionals of the Supreme Court.

Use of assessment tools and standards (e.g. ICT systems, including AI-based systems, for case management, court statistics and their transparency, monitoring, evaluation, surveys among court users or legal professionals)

5000 character(s) maximum

Geographical distribution and number of courts/jurisdictions (“judicial map”) and their specialisation, in particular specific courts or chambers within courts to deal with fraud and corruption cases.

5000 character(s) maximum

[single market relevance] Specialisation (of judges/specific courts/chambers within courts) and training for the judiciary to deal with commercial cases, as well as alternative dispute resolution mechanisms and mediation as regards commercial cases.

5000 character(s) maximum

C. Efficiency of the justice system

(Under this topic, you are not required to give statistical information but should provide input on the type of information outlined in the introduction)

[single market relevance] Developments related to efforts to improve the efficiency of the justice system (e.g. as regards length of proceedings, to address backlogs)

5000 character(s) maximum

The fact that the composition of Supreme Court judges is currently almost complete, together with the maintenance of reinforcement measures in the SCTO, is having a positive impact on the functioning of the Court. These factors, in general terms, will contribute to improvements in pending case figures and in the average time for case resolution.

The Governing Chamber of the Supreme Court has requested an increase in the number of judges in the Civil Chamber by two and in the Social Chamber by another two. Furthermore, the particularly serious situation of the Civil Chamber, which has experienced an increase in pending cases, has led to a request for additional extraordinary reinforcement measures, consisting of the appointment of Legal Counsel from the SCTO to assist in admission and decision tasks, as well as an increase in the civil service staff of the judicial office.

For the Supreme Court as a whole, and with particular emphasis on the Civil Chamber, various initiatives are being developed jointly with the Ministry of Justice and the General Council of the Judiciary for IT development and digitalization improvements, including the use of artificial intelligence techniques. The replacement of the “Minerva” case management system with the more advanced “Atenea” system is underway, along with the replacement of IT equipment for judges and legal counsels; and new applications are being developed for the SCTO and the archives.

Although with less impact than in other judicial bodies, the entry into force of the reform introduced by Organic Law 1/2025 of 2 January on measures to improve the efficiency of the Administration of Justice, and the implementation of the measures provided therein, is expected to expedite the processing of proceedings.
