CPT

Report on the CPT's 2018 periodic visit, CPT/Inf \(2019\) 20, para. 18

Section 85 (6) of the Code of Criminal Procedure stipulates that criminal suspects be granted the right of access to a lawyer.

A number of detained persons met by the CPT's delegation alleged that they had been able to consult a lawyer only at the court hearing or even later when they were already remanded in custody.

As regards legal aid, the law provides that an indigent criminal suspect who has been formally "accused" is entitled to a "free defence or a defence at a reduced fee" and must be instructed about this right. However, this does not apply to persons who have to stay with the police without having been formally accused. In addition, many detainees said that they were not aware of the possibility to have a lawyer if they were not able to pay for him/her.
