

European Commission

Union of Equality: LGBTIQ Equality Strategy 2020-2025

Building a Union where you are free to be yourself

Factsheet – November 2020

#EU4LGBTIQ

“I will not rest when it comes to building a Union of Equality. A Union where you can be who you are and love who you want – without fear of recrimination or discrimination. Because being yourself is not your ideology. It’s your identity. And no-one can ever take it away.”

Ursula von der Leyen
President of the European Commission
State of the Union 2020

The EU has made step-by-step progress towards LGBTIQ equality over the past years, but discrimination against LGBTIQ people continues to persist.

In 2019, 76% of EU citizens believed that lesbian, gay, and bisexual people should have equal rights to heterosexual people, compared to 71% in 2015.

However 43% of LGBT people felt discriminated against in 2019, as compared with 37% in 2012.

Promoting diversity in the European Union

The European Commission has a vision for a European Union where diversity is celebrated as part of our collective richness. A Union where you can be who you are and love who you want.

In the EU, every LGBTIQ person should:

Be safe

Have equal opportunities

Fully participate in society

Justice and Consumers

First-ever EU LGBTIQ Strategy

The European Commission steps up action to promote a Union of Equality for all by adopting the first-ever EU LGBTIQ Equality Strategy. It sets out a number of key objectives across four pillars to be achieved by 2025:

1. Tackling discrimination against LGBTIQ people

- ▶ Enforcing and improving legal protection against discrimination
- ▶ Promoting inclusion and diversity in the workplace
- ▶ Combating inequality in education, health, culture and sport
- ▶ Upholding the rights of LGBTIQ applicants for international protection

2. Ensuring LGBTIQ people's safety

- ▶ Reinforcing legal protection for LGBTIQ people against hate crime, hate speech and violence
- ▶ Strengthening measures to combat anti-LGBTIQ online hate speech, disinformation
- ▶ Reporting of anti-LGBTIQ hate crime and exchanges of good practices
- ▶ Protecting and promoting LGBTIQ people's bodily and mental health

3. Building LGBTIQ inclusive societies

- ▶ Ensuring rights for LGBTIQ people in cross-border situations
- ▶ Improving the legal protection for rainbow families in cross-border situations
- ▶ Improving the recognition of trans and non-binary, and intersex people
- ▶ Fostering an enabling environment for civil society

4. Leading the call for LGBTIQ equality around the world

- ▶ Strengthening the EU's engagement on LGBTIQ issues in all its external relations

LGBTIQ equality in EU policies: Mainstreaming

The Commission will integrate the fight against discrimination affecting LGBTIQ people in all EU policies.

I am proud to be intersex. It is a matter of time until everyone has heard of it and until everyone understands that biological sex is not binary. It will take longer for people to accept that everyone is free to choose how they identify.

Intersex person, aged 35, living in Sweden

I have been attacked in the corner of my street by a group of men, only because I was holding hands with my partner at the time.

Gay man, aged 28, living in Germany

My wife and I are lucky to enjoy life with our two kids as a recognised family in Belgium. But as soon as we cross the border to our home countries, we are no longer a family. This makes us worry all the time. If something were to happen to me, my wife would have a very difficult time claiming her rights to our kids.

Slovak-Romanian lesbian couple, two children, living in Belgium

Testimonies from the FRA survey 2019 survey, and collected by the European Commission