

2024 Rule of Law Report - targeted stakeholder consultation

Fields marked with * are mandatory.

Introduction

The annual Rule of Law Report lies at the centre of the Annual Rule of Law Cycle, which acts as a preventive tool, deepening multilateral dialogue and joint awareness of rule of law issues. So far, four editions of the Rule of Law Report have been published in 2020, 2021, 2022 and 2023.

The Commission would like to invite stakeholders to provide contributions to the 2024 Rule of Law Report. This survey provides information on the type of information and topics that will be covered in the 2024 Rule of Law Report, in order to allow stakeholders to provide input. More targeted input may be requested at a later stage of preparation of the 2024 Rule of Law Report, including in the context of country visits, or bilateral contacts.

The 2024 Rule of Law Report will continue to deepen the assessment under the existing four pillars, and will also follow-up on the implementation of the recommendations to Member States, that were issued as part of the 2023 Rule of Law Report. The contribution to be provided should include (1) information on measures taken to implement the recommendations addressed to the Member State in the 2023 Rule of Law report, as well as developments with regard to the points raised in the respective country chapter and (2) any other significant developments since January 2023^[1] falling under the ‘type of information’ outlined in section II.

The input should consist of a short summary, if possible in English, covering the areas referred to below. Legislation or other documents may be referenced with a link. Contributions should focus on significant developments since the last Rule of Law Report both as regards the legal framework and its implementation in practice.

[1] Unless the information was already submitted in the input for the previous Rule of Law Reports.

Type of information

The topics are structured according to four pillars: I. Justice system; II. Anti-corruption framework; III. Media pluralism; and IV. Other institutional issues related to checks and balances. The replies could include aspects set out below under each pillar. This can include challenges, current work streams, positive developments and best practices:

A) Legislative developments

- Newly adopted legislation
- Legislative drafts currently discussed in Parliament
- Legislative plans envisaged by the Government

B) Policy developments

- Implementation of legislation
- Evaluations, impact assessment, surveys
- White papers/strategies/actions plans/consultation processes
- Follow-up to reports/recommendations of Council of Europe bodies or other international organisations
- Important administrative measures
- Generalised practices

C) Developments related to the judiciary / independent authorities

- Important case law by national courts
- Important decision/opinions from independent bodies/authorities
- State of play on terms, nominations and expired mandates for high-level positions (e.g. Supreme Court, Constitutional Court, Council for the Judiciary, heads of independent authorities included in the scope of the questionnaire[2])

D) Any other relevant developments

- Respondents are free to add any further information, which they deem relevant; however, this should be short and to the point.

Please also indicate whether the developments reported are linked to the implementation of reforms and investments under the RRP, where applicable.

If there are no changes, it is sufficient to indicate this and the information covered in the contributions for the previous Rule of Law Reports should not be repeated.

[2] Such as: media regulatory authorities and bodies, national human rights institutions, equality bodies, ombudsman institutions, supreme audit institutions and, where they exist, transparency authorities.

Questions on horizontal developments

In this section, you are invited to provide information on general horizontal developments or trends, both positive and negative, covering all or several Member States. In particular, you could mention issues that are common to several Member States, as well as best practices identified in one Member State that could be replicated. Moreover, you could refer to your activities in the area of the four pillars and sub-topics (an overview of all sub-topics can be found below), and, if you represent a Network of national organisations, to the support you might have provided to one of your national members.

In 2023, civic space for organizations and individuals dedicated to defending migrants' rights within the European Union continued to shrink.

Media monitoring conducted by PICUM in 2023 revealed 14 judicial cases of criminalisation of solidarity, involving at least 116 individuals (four of whom were migrants). Nearly half of the cases concerned facilitation of entry and/or membership of a criminal organization. In most cases, people also faced additional charges, including money laundering, espionage, conspiracy, abuse of office, fraud, extortion, embezzlement, resisting the police and obstructing investigations.

Of the 116 human rights defenders criminalised in 2023, 83% were in proceedings which had continued from previous years (17% were new cases which started in 2023). The average length of these proceedings is 3.5 years. In 2023, a total of forty people received an acquittal decision - including both those that had continued from previous years as well as cases initiated in 2023. However, even if they end in an acquittal, trials still have heavy consequences on human rights defenders' finances, personal life, and psychological wellbeing. In one of the cases that was acquitted in 2023, legal proceedings lasted for eight years.

In addition, there was an increase in 2023 in the number of instances of harassment and intimidation – including police harassment and detention, administrative fines, confiscation of materials, threats by private groups and restrictions of access to certain locations and to people of concern. At least 17 individuals and 12 organisations faced these forms of harassment and intimidation in Italy, Poland, Greece, Cyprus, France, and Spain, demonstrating a consistent pattern of pressure faced by those upholding migrants' rights.

2023 saw a considerable increase in the number of cases of “criminalisation of migration”, with media reports of at least 23 cases of 77 migrants who were charged for irregular entry in the EU territory or accused of being boat drivers (in comparison, there were 12 cases in 2022 involving 20 migrants). Migrants continue to be criminalized for irregular entry, smuggling, membership in a criminal organization, involuntary manslaughter, shipwrecks, and endangering the lives of others. Most of these charges are pressed against people who were acting in conditions of duress, including being abandoned at sea and forced to drive a dinghy that later capsized. People were also accused of smuggling for taking videos to document the events; preventing the boat from being pushed back; or translating the captain's order to all passengers to protect their safety.

Amongst human rights defenders, migrants (or “third country nationals”) face additional harsh treatment during legal proceedings. In many cases, the lack of familiarity with the country's language and/or legislation is challenging for individuals charged with criminal offenses linked to smuggling. Non-nationals also frequently encounter prolonged pre-trial detention due to challenges in accessing alternative measures such as house arrest. Criminal proceedings, including when they end in acquittals, can also have a life-long impact on the possibility of living regularly in the EU.

In November 2023, the European Commission launched a proposal to update the “Facilitators' Package”, which aims to bring clarity on which offences should be criminalised, also clarifying that member states should not criminalise humanitarian assistance, the support of basic human needs, or support given from migrants to their family members. Yet, all of these exceptions in the new proposal remain non-binding provisions, which leave it up to the EU Member States whether to exempt or to criminalise civil society organisations (CSOs) and individuals who provide assistance to migrants who entered or transited a country irregularly. This reform could therefore fail in overcoming the present shortcomings, effectively preventing criminalisation of solidarity.

A complete list of sources of PICUM's 2023 media monitoring will be submitted via email.

Further information on elements contributing to creating a “hostile environment” for those engaged in humanitarian action and solidarity efforts towards migrants and on criminalisation of migration can be found in the report “Resilience and Resistance - in Defiance of the Criminalisation of Solidarity across Europe” (Gionco, M., Kanics, J., 2022 - <https://extranet.greens-efa.eu/public/media/file/1/7751>).

PICUM also published cases counted through media monitoring in 2022 in the report in “More than 100 people criminalised for acting in solidarity with migrants in the EU in 2022” (https://picum.org/wp-content/uploads/2023/03/More-than-100-people-criminalised-for-acting-in-solidarity-with-migrants-in-the-EU-in-2022_EN.pdf).

Questions for contribution

The following four pillars (I.-IV.) are sub-divided into topics (A., B., etc.) and sub-topics (1., 2., 3., etc.). For each of the topics and sub-topics, you are invited to provide (1) information on measures taken to implement the recommendations addressed to the Member State in the 2023 Rule of Law report, as well as developments with regard to the points raised in the respective country chapter of the 2023 Rule of Law Report and (2) any other significant developments since January 2023[3]. Please always include a link to and reference relevant legislation/documents (in the national language and/or where available, in English). Significant developments can include challenges, positive developments and best practices, covering both legislative developments or implementation and practices.

If there are developments you consider relevant under each of the four pillars that are not mentioned in the sub-topics, please add them under the section "other - please specify". Only significant developments should be covered.

Information provided in reply to the first question under each pillar, related to the follow-up to the recommendations, does not need to be repeated in subsequent parts of the questionnaire, but can be cross-referenced in the subsequent questions, where relevant. All other questions are not limited to the recommendations, but as in previous years, cover the entire scope of the Report.

[3] Unless already covered in the input for the previous Rule of Law Reports.

Member State covered in contribution [only one choice possible]

If you wish to submit information concerning several Member States, please fill in the questionnaire separately for each Member State. There is no limit to the number of contributions submitted by a single participant.
