1.2. PUBLIC AGENCIES

The following agencies are concerned with the surveillance, monitoring and enforcement of consumer law:

• National Consumer Agency
  The National Consumer Agency (NCA) is a statutory body charged with representing the voice of the consumer and the enforcement of consumer legislation; it advocates on behalf of consumers across a range of issues; conducts targeted research and undertakes information, education and awareness activities; it defends consumer interests at the highest levels of national and local decision-making. It has an obligation to engage with business to ensure that the legal requirements in relation to consumer protection are fully understood and promotes best practice, including by the preparation of relevant guidelines, to ensure that consumers are treated fairly. It works with representative bodies and directly with retailers to ensure that they are fully aware of their legal obligations. Retailers and other businesses can seek advice from Agency staff on aspects of consumer law. The NCA has responsibility for market surveillance in respect of product safety.

The amalgamation of the National Consumer Agency and the Competition Authority was announced during the Government’s 2009 Budget speech as part of the rationalisation plan for State agencies. It is hoped to publish the legislation in 2011.

The consumer financial services related information and education function previously the responsibility of the Financial Regulator will be formally transferred to the NCA, offering a one-stop shop service on consumer information and education issues in the Irish economy. The NCA has carried out the function on a administrative basis since April 2010.
The NCA is funded by the Department of Enterprise, Trade and Innovation and the consumer financial information and education function will be funded through levies on financial institutions.

NCA websites:
- ConsumerConnect.ie is the website for consumers in Ireland. It's about helping consumers make better choices so that they:
  - Are empowered to act for themselves
  - Get good value for money and are treated fairly and
  - Know where to go when they need support

- itsyourmoney.ie is the website giving consumers free, impartial information on financial products, from home or car insurance to mortgages and loans. The site includes guides in plain English, price comparisons, calculators, podcasts and other useful tools.

- NCA.ie is the corporate website, and is aimed at:
  - Businesses – to find out their obligations under consumer law
  - Media - for consumer news and media resources
  - Researchers - for consumer research reports
  The site also includes a register of businesses authorised by the NCA to act as credit intermediaries under the Consumer Credit Act, 1995.

- ConsumerProperty.ie is a dedicated website about property and consumer rights and responsibilities. It has tips and resources including the NCA’s guide to "Buying and Living in a Multi-Unit Development Property".

- The Central Bank of Ireland
The Central Bank Reform Act, 2010, creates a new single unitary body – the Central Bank of Ireland - responsible for both central banking and financial regulation. The new structure replaces the previous related entities, the Central Bank and the Financial Services Authority of Ireland (CBFSAI) and the Financial Regulator.

The Financial Services Consultative Consumer and Industry Panels were established by the Financial Regulator under the Central Bank Act, 1942 (as amended by the CBFSAI Act, 2004) with effect from 1 November 2004. The Central Bank Reform Bill 2010 replaced the Consultative Panels with new advisory arrangements which have yet to be put in place. It is required to appoint such a group to advise on its consumer-related functions.

All financial services providers and funds are required to be either licensed or authorised by the Financial Regulator. Certain financial service providers such as some investment intermediaries and stockbrokers are also subject to client money rules.

The degree of regulation applied to the various financial service providers by the Financial Regulator depends on their particular business and comprises prudential supervision (solvency) and monitoring compliance with conduct of business rules (Consumer Protection Code).

The Central Bank of Ireland has a role in relation to the protection of consumers of financial services. The objective is to protect customers and investors through conduct of business.

In relation to consumer protection it develops, introduces and monitors compliance with the statutory codes of conduct such as the Consumer Protection Code, the Code of Conduct on Mortgage Arrears, the Code of Conduct for Licensed Moneylenders and the Minimum Competency Requirements. In addition, a wide range of rules are imposed on the basis of EU directives such as the Markets in Financial Instruments Directive (MiFID), Payment Services Directive (PSD) and the Consumer Credit Directive (CCD).

The Central Bank is currently reviewing the Consumer Protection Code and has invited submissions from interested parties until 10 January 2011.

It monitors compliance with consumer protection requirements through:
- inspections
- reviews
- mystery shopping
- examination of specific issues or requirements

To promote compliance, it provides feedback on themed inspections and publishes the main issues on its website. Breaches of regulatory requirements are dealt with in accordance with its Administrative Sanctions procedure.

- Broadcasting Authority of Ireland
The Broadcasting Authority of Ireland was established on 1 October 2009. The objectives of the BAI, as set out in the Broadcasting Act, 2009 are:
To ensure that the number and categories of broadcasting services made available in the State best serve the needs of the people of the island of Ireland, bearing in mind their languages and traditions and their religious, ethical and cultural diversity

To ensure that the democratic values enshrined in the Constitution especially those relating to rightful liberty of expression, are upheld

To provide for open and pluralistic broadcasting services.

The Authority incorporates work previously undertaken by the Broadcasting Commission of Ireland and the Broadcasting Complaints Commission. All policies and publications previously developed by the BCI remain valid.

The BAI comprises a Board, and two statutory committees dealing with Compliance and Contract Awards. The Minister for Communications Energy and Natural Resources has appointed five members to the Board of the BAI. For information on these appointments, please click here.

Commission for Aviation Regulation
The Commission for Aviation Regulation regulates certain aspects of the aviation and travel trade sectors in Ireland. The Commission is an independent public body under the auspices of the Department of Transport, and is accountable to the Houses of the Oireachtas. Inter alia, the Commission also has a significant consumer protection role. The Commission is the national enforcement body tasked with the monitoring and regulation of EU legislation covering Air Passenger Rights and the provision of assistance to Passengers with Reduced Mobility (PRM). The Commission liaises with other bodies that have a role in consumer protection of airline passengers, including the National Consumer Agency, the European Consumer Centre and national enforcement bodies in other Member States. The Commission works with counterpart enforcement bodies in the EU for complaints arising at non-Irish airports.

Irish Medicines Board
The Irish Medicines Board (IMB) protects and enhances human and animal health through the regulation of human and veterinary medical products. Among its many activities, the IMB regulates clinical trials, as well as monitoring and inspecting products on the market to ensure their safety and efficacy. Enforcement activities include investigation of potential breaches of regulations and a range of measures, including prosecution, may be applied.
• Food Safety Authority of Ireland
The principal function of the Food Safety Authority of Ireland (FSAI) is to take all reasonable steps to ensure that food produced, distributed or marketed in the State meets the highest standards of food safety and hygiene reasonably available and to ensure that food complies with legal requirements, or where appropriate with recognised codes of good practice. The FSAI is a statutory, independent and science-based body, dedicated to protecting public health and consumer interests in the area of food safety and hygiene. It comes under the aegis of the Department of Health and Children.

- Data Protection Commissioner

The office of the Data Protection Commissioner is established under the 1988 Data Protection Act. The Data Protection Amendment Act, 2003, updated the legislation, implementing the provisions of EU Directive 95/46. The Acts set out the general principle that individuals should be in a position to control how data relating to them is used.

The Data Protection Commissioner is responsible for upholding the rights of individuals as set out in the Acts, and enforcing the obligations upon data controllers. The Commissioner is appointed by Government and is independent in the exercise of his or her functions.

Individuals who feel their rights are being infringed can complain to the Commissioner, who will investigate the matter, and take whatever steps may be necessary to resolve it.

1.3. NATIONAL CONSUMER ORGANISATIONS

Consumers Association of Ireland

The Consumers Association of Ireland (CAI) is an independent, non-profit organisation established in 1966. The aim of the CAI is to independently protect, promote and represent the interests of consumers. The CAI is a registered charity and membership is open to all who wish to pay an annual subscription. The CAI publishes a monthly magazine called Consumer Choice which contains reports on various products, advice on consumer law and presents case studies illustrating consumer rights.
1.4. CONSUMER MEDIA

Local and national media, both newsprint and electronic, carry regular articles, discussions and advice on consumer issues.

The Consumers’ Association of Ireland publishes Consumer Choice magazine monthly for its members. It provides impartial reports on household goods, personal finance, cars, health, safety and the environment. It also reports on consumer law, gives advice on consumer problems and presents consumer case studies, which illustrate consumer rights.

1.5. REDRESS BODIES: COURTS AND ADRs

- The Small Claims Court
  The Small Claims procedure is an alternative method of commencing and processing civil proceedings in respect of a small claim (not exceeding €2,000) and is provided for under the District Court (Small Claims Procedure) Rules, 1997 & 1999. It is designed to handle consumer claims cheaply, without involving a solicitor. To be eligible to use the procedure, the "consumer" must have bought the goods or services for private use from someone selling them in the course of business. The District Court Clerk, called the Small Claims Registrar, processes small claims. Where possible, the registrar will negotiate a settlement without the need for a court hearing. If the matter cannot be settled the Registrar will bring the claim before the District Court.

  Address: Local District Court Offices
  Website: Courts Service - Ireland
  E-mail: scadmin@courts.ie

- European Small Claims Procedure
  The European Small Claims Procedure is an alternative method of commencing and processing civil and commercial matters (not exceeding €2,000) in respect of a small claim in cross-border cases. It is provided for in Regulation (EC) No. 861/2007 and the District Court Rules 1997 and 2008 - Order 53C refers. The service is provided in Ireland through the District Court by the District Court Clerk, called the Small Claims Registrar ('the Registrar'). The procedure, which cannot be made on-line, will be mainly dealt with by correspondence, although a hearing before a court can be held if the court thinks it is necessary. Where possible, the Registrar will negotiate a settlement without the need for a court hearing. A judgment given in a Member State will be recognised and enforced in another Member State. The enforcement procedure will be governed by the law of the Member State where the judgment is to be enforced.
Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR)
An Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) body is an organisation that aims to solve disputes without going to court. There are two different types of ADR - Arbitration and Mediation. Arbitration is a consensual procedure for the settlement of disputes under which both parties agree to be bound by the decision of the arbitrator. The arbitrator's decision is final and legally binding on both parties. In Ireland arbitration is governed by the Arbitration Acts, 1954 - 1998. With Mediation, as in arbitration, both parties agree to use a neutral third party to help solve a dispute. However the terms of agreement are decided by the parties rather than by the mediator. This is not legally binding or enforceable through the courts but an agreement can be put into a legally binding format.

Nominated ADR bodies in Ireland
The Department of Enterprise, Trade and Innovation has nominated the following Irish ADR bodies adhering to the European Commission Recommendation 98/257/EC:

Advertising Standards Authority of Ireland (ASAI)
The Advertising Standards Authority for Ireland is an independent regulatory body set up to ensure that all advertisements shown in Ireland are legal, decent, honest and truthful. The Advertising Standards Authority for Ireland is financed by the advertising industry and committed, to promoting the highest standards of marketing communications, that is, advertising, promotional marketing and direct marketing. It also deals with individual complaints.

The Financial Services Ombudsman’s Bureau
The Financial Services Ombudsman is a statutory officer who deals independently with complaints from consumers about their individual dealings with all Financial Service Providers that have not been resolved by the providers, after they have been through the internal complaints resolution systems of the providers. The Ombudsman is therefore the arbiter of unresolved disputes and is impartial. All personal customers, limited companies with a turnover of €3m or less, unincorporated bodies, charities, clubs, partnerships, trusts etc. can complain to the Ombudsman. It is a free service to the Complainant, compensation up to €250,000 can be awarded and decisions are binding subject to appeal to the High Court.

2.4. INFORMATION AND EDUCATION

General Information

Citizens Information is an Irish eGovernment website provided by the Citizens Information Board. The site provides public service information for Ireland. The Citizens Information Board is the national agency responsible for supporting the provision of information, advice and advocacy to the public on the broad range of social and civil services. The Citizens Information Board also provides a website aimed at people who are unemployed or facing an unemployment situation. This site is called www.losingyourjob.ie. The Board is the support agency for the national network of Citizens Information Services and the Citizens Information Phone Service. The Citizens Information Board also supports the development of advocacy services for individuals, particularly those with a disability.

Financial Information

There are a number of institutions in Ireland mandated in the area of personal finance education, or that have focussed significant resources in this area.

- The National Consumer Agency is required to increase awareness amongst consumers of the costs, risks and benefits of financial products and services. It does this by running:
  - Specific information campaigns on television, radio and across other media
  - Consultation processes on relevant consumer topics
  - A consumer helpline on a national lo-call number 1890 432 432
  - Publication of a Shoppers' Rights Card, available from participating retailers

The Agency is currently finalising plans to roll out a range of further information-based activities, to include liaison activities with businesses, representative bodies, Consumer Information Centres, participation at relevant exhibitions and trade fairs, and market research projects.

- The Money Advice and Budgeting Service has a statutory remit to promote and develop education in respect of money management.

- The Pensions Board provides information on pensions to the public and to those involved in pensions.
In addition to these, other organisations such as financial institutions run financial capability programmes for school-going or adult audiences. For details of many of these programmes, please see the Audit of Personal Finance Education Resources.

2.5. INFORMATION GATHERING / RESEARCH

All the organisations identified have research units, which regularly publish reports but the primary source of consumer research is the National Consumer Agency.
